If you have any questions or concerns about obtaining your medical record information, please contact your hospital's Health Information Management Department directly.

3. Risks to Patient Privacy: MySite uses the Internet to communicate. We use encryption to keep your communications private. Encryption is computer technology that encodes your data so that outsiders cannot read it. Although this is extremely secure, software errors (bugs), human errors, and computer problems could possibly cause a loss of confidentiality. This is very rare. If it were to happen, there is a risk that information contained in your communications could become known to unauthorized individuals.

4. Technical Questions are Not Part of Your Medical Record: All of the messages or correspondence that you send to us for technical help through MySite will not be part of your permanent medical record.

5. Access by Authorized Parties: Persons other than your doctor may see technical questions or information that you send to us through MySite, for example, staff reviewing or responding to "Contact Us" messages. MySite keeps track of who is looking at your MySite information.

6. Protecting your Privacy: Your information is protected by a password that only you know. If you choose a password that could be easily guessed or if you give your password to other people, the information in MySite could become known to unauthorized individuals. We recommend that you choose a password that has:

- at least 8 characters
- a combination of letters and numbers

This should keep unauthorized individuals from accessing your MySite account.

7. Adolescent Access: We allow patients 13 years or older to control who has access to their patient portal information. Adolescent patients may submit a MySite Third Party Access Form to give their parents or guardians access to their information until they become of legal age (18), upon which portal access will be automatically revoked for the parent or guardian.

8. We suggest strongly that you not share your MySite password or logon ID with family members, caregivers or others. If you share your password, those people will be able to see all of the information contained within the medical record provided through MySite. It may also result in those people sharing your password or logon ID with others, without your knowledge.

9. If you believe that your password is being used by others without your permission:

You should change your password immediately by using the password change feature in the Preferences tab. If you are having trouble making that change or if you have other concerns, please contact MySite technical support by calling the IT Help Desk at your local hospital.
